

Interview with an Immigrant - Rubric

| | Strong | Developing | Not proficient |
|--------------|--|---|--|
| Introduction | Introduction, written in the third person, highlights the most important experiences of the interviewee. | Introduction present, but doesn't include the highlights of the interviewee's experience. Not written in third person. | No or minimal introduction included in the interview. |
| Body Part #1 | The first part of the body includes very detailed writing on the home country of the immigrant interviewee. Written in first person. | The first part of the body includes some details on home country of the immigrant interviewee. Not written in first person. | No or few details on the home country included in the interview. |
| Body Part #2 | The second part of the body includes very detailed writing on the immigrant experience in the US. Written in first person. | The second part of the body includes some details of the interviewee's experience in the US. Not written in first person. | No or few details on the immigrant experience in the US included in the interview. |
| Conclusion | The conclusion includes the most important reflection of the immigrant on his or her experiences. | The conclusion includes some reflection from the interviewee on the immigrant experience. | No or little reflection by the interviewee on the immigrant experience. |
| Mechanics | Interview is written with correct spelling, punctuation, and grammar. | Some grammar, spelling, and punctuation errors. | Many grammar, spelling, and punctuation errors. |